12. Answering Questions ???

Last year, I could wear whatever I wanted. This year, not so much. I have to wear a uniform to school. I do not like wearing uniforms to school. I tell my mom this every single morning when I have to get dressed. I am a fan of colorful clothes with happy patterns and friendly animals. I like being creative when I choose my outfits. I look down at my bed where my uniform is laid out for today. It's a boring dark blue and dark green. I have to wear the same things, five days a week. Yuck! I frown. Then, I start planning my stupendously fabulous outfit for after school.

What does the narrator think of school uniforms?

- a. She thinks uniforms make getting ready in the morning easier.
- b. She thinks uniforms are extremely uncomfortable.
- c. She thinks uniforms look great and are very fashionable.
- d. She thinks uniforms are boring and unfashionable.

4. Jenga: Number Jenga blocks. Students stack the blocks, then take turns pulling blocks. Students answer the corresponding number card.

Fiction Questions

Landon threw on her bright pink shirt. Her cabin mates at Camp Tikiwawa wore a pink shirt too. They huddled together and put their hands in the circle, one on top of the other. "Pink power!" they all shouted as they threw their hands in the air. They headed out the door for the most fun day of camp, "Color Wars". Color Wars was a day when each cabin chose a color to wear and competed against the other cabins in events like the three-legged race, swimming, and canoeing. The very first event was going to be tug-of-war. Landon could not contain her excitement.

What will most likely happen next in the story?

- Landon would become frustrated with her teammates and quit tug-of-war.
- Landon's team would participate in the canoe race.
- Landon and her teammates will work together to try to win the tug-of-war event.
- Landon would call her parents to pick her up because she is homesick.

Fiction Questions

???

My name is Violet Carol Grubb. I know what your thinking; it is an unusual name. It turns out it wasn't quite as uncommon as I thought. On the third day of the third grade, we got a new student. She smiled as our teacher Miss Fox brought her to the front of the room. "Class, this is our new student, Violet Grubb," said Miss Fox. I was so surprised that my eyes almost popped out of my head! I raised my hand immediately. "Miss Fox, I think you are confused. I am Violet Grubb." Miss Fox shook her head and told me that she was not confused. She said that although it was hard to believe, we were going to have two Violet Grubbs in our class. Miss Fox asked Violet to share about herself. As the other Violet talked, I realized we had even more in common than our names. I couldn't wait to get to know the other Violet.

Why was Violet surprised?

- Violet was surprised Miss Fox was being friendly.
- Violet was shocked that there was a new student.
- Violet was shocked that the new student had a different name.
- Violet was shocked someone else had the same name as her.

The old sign above the store read "Your Story Bookstore." Ainsley peered inside. She did need a new book to read. She opened the door and went inside. The store clerk welcomed her. She picked up a book from the shelf and opened it. Twinkly sparkles came out from the pages. The pages were blank. "That's strange," thought Ainsley. She opened another book. Its pages were empty. She opened another, and another, all had blank pages. She looked at the clerk because she felt very confused.

The clerk said, "This is a very special bookstore. Choose your book, and the book will write your story inside." Ainsley chose a book. She opened it, and there was the story of her life. In the middle of the book was a chapter about Ainsley going to the Your Story Bookstore. The rest of the pages; however, were blank. The story stopped at the moment that was happening now.

Why were the rest of the pages most likely blank?

- The book was saving the rest of the pages for what happens next in Ainsley's life.
- The book ran out of ink to write the rest of the story.
- The book was not working correctly.
- The book decided it did not want to write Ainsley's story, after all.

Fiction Questions

On Fridays, my family has game night. We play all kinds of board games together while we laugh and tell stories. One night, during a very close game of Squirrel Rescue, my brother Henry rolled the dice, and it landed on "one". This meant he was going to fall even further behind the rest of my family in the game and would probably lose. He looked at the board and saw my sister Piper, my mom, and my dad's game pieces far in front of his. His eyebrows scrunched, and he frowned. He stood up from the table, threw the dice across the room, stomped his feet as he ran to his room. He yelled, "I'm not playing anymore! I quit" behind him.

How was the narrator's brother most likely feeling?

- Frustrated
- Friendly
- Thrilled
- Nervous
