ABOUT LEXILE LEVELS

MagiCore Learning, LLC is a certified Lexile® Partner. These texts are officially measured and approved by Lexile and MetaMetrics® to ensure appropriate rigor and differentiation for students.

The Lexile Framework® for Reading measures are scientific, quantitative text levels. When the Lexile of a text is measured, specific, measurable attributes of the text are considered, including, but not limited to, word frequency, sentence length, and text cohesion. These are difficult attributes for humans to evaluate, so a computer measures them.

Common Core State Standards uses Lexile level bands as one measure of text complexity. Text complexity ranges ensure students are college and career ready by the end of 12th grade. Lexile measures help educators scaffold and differentiate instruction as well as monitor reading growth.

Grade Band	Lexile® Bands Aligned to Common Core Expectations
K-1	190L-530L
2-3	420L-820L
4-5	740L-1010L
6-8	1185L-1385L

Keep in mind when using any leveled text that many students will need scaffolding and support to reach text at the high end of their grade band. According to Appendix A of the Common Core Standards, "It is important to recognize that scaffolding often is entirely appropriate. The expectation that scaffolding will occur with particularly challenging texts is built into the Standards' grade-by-grade text complexity expectations, for example. The general movement, however, should be toward decreasing scaffolding and increasing independence both within and across the text complexity bands defined in the Standards."

How to Teach Fact vs. Opinion

Model

Tell students an opinion statement such as, "I HATE chocolate!"

Ask students how they feel about chocolate. Tell students that these are opinions because they are something that you think, feel, or believe.

Tell students, "Chocolate comes from a fruit tree. It is made from a seed." Explain that this is a fact because it can be proven true and is based on science.

Introduce the Fact vs. Opinion anchor chart. Ask students to come up with their own examples of facts and opinions.

When students are stuck, ask them, "Is it what someone thinks, feels, or believes? Or can it be proven true or false?"

Work as a class or in partners to complete the fact and opinion sort.

Visuals

- Create an anchor chart displaying the difference between fact and opinion.
- Students go on a scavenger hunt to find examples of facts and opinions in their books.
- Students use the fact vs. opinion books while reading independently.

Differentiation

- Model determining the difference between fact and opinion while previewing read aloud books.
- Students who struggle with this skill may need more exposure to nonfiction books. Provide many opportunities for nonfiction reading and noticing text features.

The Greatest Swimmer

Michael Phelps is an American swimmer. He swims very fast. He raced in five Olympic Games. He set many world records. Michael won more Olympic gold medals than any other person.

His body helps him swim well. He is tall. His torso is long. He has short legs and long arms. His long arms and large feet help his body move fast under the water.

Michael worked hard to be a great swimmer. I used to think he was the greatest swimmer of all time. But then something happened.

Michael Phelps

Michael was asked to be on Shark Week. He was going to race a great white shark. It was not a real shark though. He would race a video of a shark.

The day of the race finally came. Michael swam in a pool. The video played of the great white shark swimming through the ocean. Everybody was excited to see who would win.

A great white shark can swim fast. Michael can swim fast too. But he could not swim faster than a great white shark. Michael later said that he knew he could not beat the great white shark.

So, who is the greatest swimmer of all time? It must be the great white shark!
