The Wind and the Sun

The Wind and the Sun had a fight.

"I am stronger," said the Wind. "I can blow down trees."

"I am stronger," said the Sun. "I can melt the snow."

Just then, they saw a man.

"Let's have a contest," said the Wind. "Let's see who can get that man's coat off. Then we will know who is stronger."

"Very well," said the Sun.

The Wind tried first. It blew cold wind at the man. He held his coat tightly. The wind blew harder. The man held his coat tighter.

Next, the Sun tried. It shined on the man to warm him. The Sun became warmer. The man began to sweat. Then he took off his coat. The Sun had won the contest.

TEST: Zoo Breakout

I was born in the zoo. I always liked it here. But that's because I didn't know any better.

Then one day, my mother told me a story.

"Son," she said, "I was not born here. I once lived in the forest."

Mother told me all about life in the forest. It sounded great.

"I have a plan to help you leave the zoo," she said. Mother's plan was smart. She pretended to be sick.

The zookeepers came to take her away. I threw a fit. In all the commotion, I stole a badge.

Later, I used the badge to open the doors. I'd seen my keepers do it hundreds of times.

I quickly climbed a tree. From there, I could see the forest.

I waited until dark to escape. A few shocked people noticed me before I reached the forest. Thanks to my mother, I was finally free.

ABOUT LEXILE LEVELS

MagiCore Learning, LLC is a certified Lexile[®] Partner. These texts are officially measured and approved by Lexile and MetaMetrics[®] to ensure appropriate rigor and differentiation for students.

The Lexile Framework[®] for Reading measures are scientific, quantitative text levels. When the Lexile of a text is measured, specific, measurable attributes of the text are considered, including, but not limited to, word frequency, sentence length, and text cohesion. These are difficult attributes for humans to evaluate, so a computer measures them.

Common Core State Standards uses Lexile level bands as one measure of text complexity. Text complexity ranges ensure that students are college and career ready by the end of 12th grade. Lexile measures help educators scaffold and differentiate instruction, as well as monitor reading growth.

Grade Band	Lexile [®] Bands Aligned to Common Core Expectations
K-1	190L-530L
2-3	420L-820L
4-5	740L-1010L
6-8	925L- 1185L

Keep in mind when using any leveled text that many students will need scaffolding and support to reach text at the high end of their grade band. According to Appendix A of the Common Core Standards, "It is important to recognize that scaffolding often is entirely appropriate. The expectation that scaffolding will occur with particularly challenging texts is built into the Standards' grade-by-grade text complexity expectations, for example. The general movement, however, should be toward decreasing scaffolding and increasing independence both within and across the text complexity bands defined in the Standards."

Drew got on the school bus.

"Welcome back," Pavil said. "I can't wait to hear about your trip!"

Then Pavil turned to the friend he was sitting with. They opened a comic book and started chatting. Drew sat down by himself.

In class, the students had to color a picture.

"Can I use your markers?"

Drew handed his markers to the boy.

On the bus ride home, Drew said,

"Cool," Pavil said. "I'll bring some markers home."

At home, Drew waited and waited for his markers. He put away his pictures. He knew he would use them soon.

Sandwich Buddies

Ronald was new in town. He didn't know anyone in the neighborhood. He wanted some friends. Each day he would walk along the sidewalk near his home. He was too shy to talk to anyone, though. He stayed in his house more and more. He grew very lonely.

Scratching sounded at Ronald's door one afternoon. He opened the door and found a scraggly dog standing there. The dog had no collar.

"Hey, boy," Ronald said. "You look lonely like me." He stepped aside, hoping the dog would come into his house.

The dog just looked at Ronald with sad, brown eyes. It didn't go into the house.

Ronald went into his kitchen. He grabbed a fresh loaf of bread. He returned to the door and wiggled the bread at the skinny dog. "You must be hungry. Come in. We can have a snack together."

The dog got a whiff of the bread. Its nose twitched at the scent. Its tail swished back and forth. The pup licked its lips. Slowly, it stepped into Ronald's house. It sniffed every corner of the floor.

Ronald took lunch meat out of the refrigerator. He made two sandwiches. He took the sandwiches to the living room and sat on the couch.

The dog followed him. Ronald and the dog ate their sandwiches together. The dog let Ronald pet him.

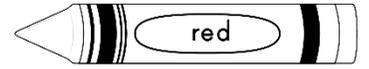

"I guess I have a friend now," Ronald said with a smile.

TEST: The Honest Woodcutter

"Oh no," cried the woodcutter. He had dropped his ax. It fell into a deep pond. The spirit of the pond came up. She held an ax. It was shiny silver.

"Is this your ax?" she asked.

"No," said the honest woodcutter.

The spirit of the pond held up another ax. It was shiny gold.

"Is this your ax?" she asked.

"No," said the honest woodcutter.

Then, the spirit held up another ax. It was plain wood.

"That is my ax," said the woodcutter.

The spirit gave the woodcutter his wooden ax. Then she gave him the silver and gold axes, too.

"Because you were honest, you can have all three," she said.

I. Number the events in order:

----- The woodcutter said the golden ax was not his.

----- The spirit gave the woodcutter all three axes.

----- The woodcutter dropped his ax in a pond.

----- The spirit showed the woodcutter a silver ax.

2. Why did the spirit give the woodcutter three axes?

Handwriting practice lines consisting of a solid top line, a dashed middle line, and a solid bottom line. The word "Magi" is written in a large, stylized font across the top line, and the word "CORE" is written in a large, blocky font across the bottom line.

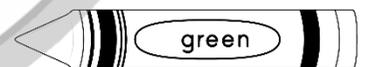

3. What is the lesson of the story?

- a. Always tell the truth.
- b. Gold is worth more than silver.
- c. Be careful with sharp tools.

4. Who is telling the story?

- a. The woodcutter
- b. The spirit of the pond
- c. Someone not in the story
