Inferences Passage

I could not believe my eyes. There it was, just like the frog had told me. I must admit there was a huge doubt in my mind that the castle even existed. I have lived in these woods my whole life. How had I never seen it before? As I crept closer, pushing back the foliage that weaved in all directions, I could finally see it in its entirety. The castle was massive. Looking up, I could not even see the top peaks. They seemed to be dancing in the clouds. Now that I had seen it, I had to keep going. I replayed the frog's warning in my head, but my heart wanted to know what was inside this mysterious castle.

I kept my ears on high alert, trying to take in any noise coming from inside the castle walls, but there was nothing. I stood outside the entry point for some time and finally realized the knight know about the castle's location? found it while hunting in the deep woods. ad been searching for a new fortress and found the castle. 'rog told him about the castle in the woods. ight had been looking for a mysterious castle for years.

upports the inference that the shadow in the castle is a dragon? ad the frog's warning in my head, but my heart wanted to know what was mysterious castle." as, just like the frog had told me." pped inside, clutching the sword that hung at my hip." 'heard the snorting behind me and the gusts of warm air swooshing

 - b. "This abandoned pile of stones could be our new fortress."
 - c. "I replayed the frog's warning in my head, but my heart wanted to know what was inside this mysterious castle."

As soon as the ball left my hand my mouth dropped. I squinted my eyes, afraid to watch. The sound of shattering glass filled the air and sent my brother running into the road. I could feel his stare on the back of my head. I slowed down around to meet his gaze. He did not have to say a word to tell me what he was thinking. When my parents came home to find the broken window, I was in big trouble! This would be the second incident in less than a month.

Read this sentence from the story:

Joe saw the water pooled on the road and sped right through it. He loved the thrill of fast driving and squealing tires. When he first started driving, he was more cautious. However, after buying his first sportscar he started to get a little more reckless on the road. Fast driving does have its consequences. Just then he was on his way to the county courthouse to pay last week's speeding ticket.

Why did Joe buy a sportscar?

- a. He had always wanted to drive a sports car.
- b. He is a thrill seeker and likes a fast car.

What I miss the most is the smell of fresh baked cookies. Grandma's house used to always smell so delicious. She would greet everyone at the front door with a plate of warm sweets and a smile. The home she is in now also has a very strong smell, but it is not one you would want to remember. It reminds me of bleach and laundry soap. The air in her room is always cool and not inviting. Although Grandma's environment has changed drastically, her smile remains the same. She lights up every time we visit.

3. What detail supports the inference that Grandma has moved?

"She lights up every time we visit."

"It reminds me of bleach and laundry soap."

"The air in her room is always cool and not inviting."

"The home she is in now also has a very strong smell, but it is not one you would want to remember."
