Main Idea & Details

Contrary to what you may have heard, snakes cannot actually dislocate their jaw. Instead, the bones and ligaments around the snake's skull and jaw are flexible. They stretch freely around the snake's prey. This allows snakes to eat animals that look much larger than the snakes are. Small snakes can swallow an egg or a mouse. Large snakes have been known to swallow deer, pigs, and crocodiles.

What is the main idea?

- Snakes have flexible bones in their jaw and skull.
- Not all snakes have to eat live animals.
- There are myths about snakes.
- Snakes are adapted to swallow large prey.

Dolphins use their senses. They search for food with a type of sonar called echolocation. This involves making clicking sounds. When the sound waves hit an object, they bounce off the object and come back to the dolphin. This tells the dolphin the location, shape, size, and speed of the object. Dolphins also have sharp eyesight. They can see well both under and above water. On the other hand, dolphins have a poor sense of smell. They also have a poor sense of taste.
