Find the Main Idea

You cannot always tell what an animal is like from its name. A hairy frogfish is not a furry frog! It is a type of fish that lives in warm oceans near rock or coral reefs. It moves by "walking" on its fins. Another animal, the mountain chicken, does not live on a farm. It is a frog that lives in the Caribbean islands. A killer whale's name may fool you, too. Also known as the blackfish, it is not a whale or a fish. It is really a dolphin. An animal's name might fool you into thinking it is something that it is not!

What is the main idea?

- a. A hairy frogfish uses its fins to walk.
- b. Whales can be dolphins.
- c. An animal's name might not match its looks.
- d. Chickens can live in the mountains.
