Giant Pandas

Giant pandas are bears. They live in China. Adult pandas are heavy. They weigh about 200 to 300 pounds. Pandas are great climbers. They are also good swimmers. Pandas are quiet. They are black and white. People love pandas. They look like cute teddy bears!

Pandas eat mostly bamboo. Sometimes they eat fish. Bamboo is their favorite. Pandas eat almost 12 hours a day. They eat a lot of bamboo. Pandas like the soft part inside. There is less bamboo growing today. This is not good for Pandas.

When pandas are born, they don't have fur. They are pink. They are also blind. After about 3 weeks, the black and white colors show up. Panda moms take great care of their cubs. They don't leave the den for many days. Cubs open their eyes 50 days after birth. Then they start to crawl. Next, pandas grow teeth. Panda cubs then learn to walk. Scientists think pandas can live for about 20 years in the wild. In human care, they can live for about 30 years.

1. Why do pandas mostly eat bamboo?
 - a. They don't have teeth to eat anything else.
 - b. That is the only food humans feed them.
 - c. It is very healthy.
 - d. It is their favorite, and they like the soft inside of the bamboo.
2. Why is it not good that less bamboo is growing today?
 - a. Because pandas refuse to eat anything besides bamboo.
 - b. Because pandas are allergic to all other foods.
 - c. Because pandas mostly eat bamboo; with less bamboo, there is less food for them.
 - d. Because pandas mostly eat bamboo; they will have to share more.
3. What is the author's main point for writing this text?
 - a. to explain why giant pandas are endangered
 - b. to answer a question about the diet of giant pandas
 - c. to describe basic facts about giant pandas
 - d. to describe how baby pandas are taken care of by their mothers

1 Making Sandcastles

Making a sandcastle is fun! It is an easy project. You can do it at the beach. You will need a bucket and a shovel. First, find a good spot near the water. Don't get too close! You don't want the waves to wash your castle away. Next, get your shovel. Fill your bucket with sand. You want to fill it to the top. Add a little water to the sand. It will make the sand sticky. Then flip the bucket upside down. Now, lift it up. You've just made your first sand tower!

It is time to make the sandcastle bigger. Repeat the steps of filling

1. What is the author's main point in this text?

- a. To explain the importance of sandcastles.
- b. To explain how to make a sandcastle.
- c. To explain the history of sandcastles.
- d. To persuade the reader to like sandcastles.

2. Which reason supports the author's main point?

- a. The author provides evidence to support why sandcastles are fun.
- b. The author provides steps on how to make a sandcastle.
- c. The author provides a clear labeled diagram of all the features.
- d. The author provides a timeline of the sandcastle's history.

3. According to the author, how do you make your sandcastle special and stand out?

- a. The author recommends turning your sandcastle into a sculpture to make it special.
- b. The author recommends using other beach toys to make your sandcastle special.
- c. The author recommends using decorations, such as shells, to make your sandcastle special.
- d. The author recommends making a very small sandcastle to make it special.
